A Detroit man suspected in a string of break- ins and rapes on the city's lower east side was paroled just six days before the first assault occurred, officials said Tuesday.

Calvin Jerome Moore, 23, was arraigned Tuesday in 36th District Court on two counts of breaking and entering, one count of first-degree criminal sexual conduct and one count of attempted rape. A not guilty plea was entered for Moore. The charges stem from two alleged assaults in the predawn hours of Oct. 7 and Oct. 17, and police said they suspect Moore in four similar cases.

Magistrate Robert Costello ordered Moore jailed on $2 million bond, meaning Moore would have to post $200,000 to be freed.

State corrections records indicate Moore was paroled Sept. 18. He had been sentenced Oct. 2, 1986, to 18 months to 15 years for breaking and entering and 18 months to 4 years for felonious assault.

On Sept. 24, police said, a string of assaults began in the Fifth (Jefferson) Precinct in an area bounded by Conner, Alter, Mack and East Jefferson. The attacks had similar patterns and lasted through Oct. 17, police said.

The suspect burglarized homes of female residents and raped them, police said. The victims generally did not have adult males living with them.

Chief William Hart credited citizens who gave police tips after the news media publicized the case last week. Police said those tips led them to arrest Moore at his home in the 2100 block of Newport on Friday.

About 5:30 a.m. Oct. 7, Moore allegedly broke into a home in the 1300 block of Lenox and raped a 17-year-old. Police said they found Moore's fingerprints on a pane of glass at the home.

About 5 a.m. Oct. 17, Moore allegedly broke into a home in the 1300 block of Newport and tried to rape a 39-year-old woman sleeping on a couch, court records said. Moore reportedly was armed with a knife, but he ran out a front door after the woman screamed for her boyfriend.
