A man walked into a west side Detroit bar Wednesday saying, "I don't like Highwaymen" and shot one member of the Highwaymen motorcycle club to death and wounded another , police said.

David Rebeck, 45, of Oak Park died in the emergency room of Detroit Receiving Hospital after the 9:25 p.m. shooting at the Lucky 13 Lounge, 1303 Springwells. His companion, Joseph Hall, 40, of Detroit, was in stable condition Thursday night at the hospital with a gunshot wound to the leg.

Police on Wednesday night arrested a suspect in the shootings, a 45-year-old Detroit man .

Lucky 13 Lounge Owner Bill Harris said both victims belonged to the Highwaymen. He said at least five of its members frequent the bar but are prohibited from wearing their colors.

Harris said the gunman was a former employe whom he had dismissed about a month ago when he "fell off the wagon." He said the man had frequented the bar daily ever since.

Harris said he wasn't in the bar during the shooting, but was told by witnesses that when the gunman saw the two bikers seated at the bar, he left the lounge to get a gun from his car. When the suspect came back, Harris said he was told, "he went ape, blasting away."

Harris said his Highwaymen customers are always well behaved.

"They've never caused a problem," he said. "Just because you're a Highwayman doesn't mean you're a gangster."

Memo: CORRECTION RAN April 23, 1988

getting it straight

* A Friday article about a shooting in a west side Detroit bar incorrectly reported that police said the victims were members of the Highwaymen motorcycle club. Police did not say that, and relatives of David Rebeck, who was slain, said that neither he nor his companion, Joseph Hall, who was wounded, were Highwaymen.
