A reputed enforcer for the Young Boys Inc. heroin trafficking ring, sought on a charge of raping a 14-year-old girl, led FBI agents and police on a high-speed car chase through northwest Detroit Thursday before being caught.

Farod Mallory, 20, of Rainbow Drive in Lathrup Village, was seen leaving his sister's home in the 15400 block of Plainview at 10:45 a.m. by an FBI agent who had the house under surveillance, said FBI Special Agent John Anthony.

"Mallory's been sought since March on a federal unlawful flight to avoid prosecution warrant for the Feb. 24 rape of a Detroit girl," Anthony said. "A co-defendant charged with Mallory already has been convicted and is awaiting sentencing."

Mallory, who Anthony said was accompanied by his 17-year-old girlfriend, got into a 1976 Chevrolet and drove a short distance before "he (recognized) our agent and took off."

The agent radioed for help and other agents and Detroit police cars joined the chase , "which reached speeds of more than 90 miles an hour," Anthony said.

Police and FBI agents set up a roadblock at Schoolcraft and Evergreen, but Mallory, speeding south on Evergreen, "swerved around it and narrowly missed hitting a police sergeant," Anthony said.

"At Joy Road, Mallory swerved into the northbound lanes," where he hit a car being driven by Francis Tomscik Jr., 48, of Detroit, Anthony said. "Mallory crawled out the passenger-side window and fled into an alley, but he was arrested about a block away."

Tomscik was in stable condition Thursday night at Oakwood Hospital in Dearborn, a spokesman said.

Mallory's girlfriend, Monica Rushton, 17, of the 16500 block of Trinity in northwest Detroit, "was pulling a loaded .357 magnum revolver from under the front seat" as a police officer arrested her, Anthony said.

Anthony said 60 packets of suspected narcotics were found in the car.

Mallory was charged last year in the machine-gun slayings of two Detroit men. The charges were dismissed when "witnesses either failed to appear or gave conflicting testimony," said a spokesman from the Wayne County Prosecutor's Office.

Mallory was scheduled to be arraigned on the rape charge today, police said. Charges of assaulting a federal officer also will be filed against Mallory, Anthony said.
