Detroit police announced Wednesday they are looking for two teenage suspects in the July 7 attempted robbery and shooting of a 21-year-old man and his 1-year-old nephew.

Adrian Matthews, 16, and Keith Holliday, 18, are wanted in connection with the shooting during the attempted robbery at about 9:50 p.m. in the area of Cheyenne and Schaefer, police said.

The bullet from Matthews' gun ripped through the adult's hand and struck the infant in the back, police reported. Holliday is wanted by police as an accomplice in the attempted robbery. The suspects fled on foot after the shooting, police said.

Holliday is a fugitive with several outstanding warrants, though police did not provide specifics about what crimes are involved with the warrants.

Police originally reported the suspects tried to take the 21-year-old man's Cartier glasses, but police now say that nothing was taken at the crime scene. It is not clear whether the glasses exist. Both victims remain hospitalized and are recovering, police said.

Police are asking anyone with information on Matthews or Holliday to contact the Detroit Police Southwestern District at 313-596-5300 or call the Crime Stoppers anonymous tip line at 800-SPEAK-UP (800-773-2587).
