WARREN

Robbery suspects held after chase Two Detroit teens were arrested Wednesday in Warren after they allegedly robbed a Detroiter, then fled in a stolen car.

Martez Lajuan Norwood, 18, faces five felonies, including fleeing and eluding and carrying a concealed weapon. His 16-year-old passenger's name was not released because he is a minor.

Norwood and his passenger are accused of robbing a Detroit resident near Remington and Mitchell in Detroit about 2:30 a.m.

About 25 minutes later, Warren police noticed a red Ford Taurus traveling south on Groesbeck that stopped at a green light. Officers checked the license plate and found the vehicle had been reported stolen.

The officers ordered the Taurus to pull over, but the driver sped away, stopping only after hitting a curb in Weigand Park on Toepfer, police said.

The suspects ran, but the officers caught up to them.

Police said they found a bolt-action rifle across the front seat of the Taurus.

A preliminary exam for Norwood is set for Oct. 2 at Warren's 37th District Court. Information about the minor was not released by police.

Any robbery charges would be handled by Detroit police. Information on those charges was not available Wednesday.
