Three Detroit men are in police custody for allegedly attacking the mother and pregnant sister of a St . Aubin Street murder victim with metal pipes and baseball bats.

The women and two male companions told police they were beaten Monday afternoon near the Frank Murphy Hall of Justice in Detroit. They said the incident followed a verbal confrontation outside the courthouse just after the murder conviction of Tamara Marie Marshall, 18, for her role in a crack house robbery that left six people dead.

Three men -- ages 19, 20 and 23 -- were being held pending issuance of assault warrants in the alleged attack on Joyce Frazier, her daughter Regina, and the two men. Frazier's 16- year-old son, Bobby, was among the victims of the April 4 slayings at 17850 St . Aubin .

"I'm not shocked, I was afraid this was bound to happen," said Recorder's Court Judge Harvey F. Tennen, who presided over the trial and warned against threats and retaliation.

"These people who did it are losers and they keep on losing. It's a sad, sad commentary," Tennen said.

Wayne County Prosecutor John O'Hair said authorities will not tolerate such attacks.

"When there are acts of vindictiveness or retaliation against crime victims or their families , those are very serious cases and this office and the Detroit police will deal with them forcefully," O'Hair said.

According to police , the Fraziers and their companions were confronted as they left the courthouse. Security officers and court employees broke up the incident.

But the Frazier group was attacked again on Park near Woodward by men armed with bats and pipes who had leaped from a car.

A mounted police officer in the area quickly summoned help and the suspects were taken into custody. Regina Frazier was treated at a nearby hospital and released.

Before and during the trial, Tennen and Wayne County sheriff's deputies moved quickly to head off violence in connection with the case. During a pretrial hearing, Tennen said he'd swiftly jail anyone for threats or intimidation.

Marshall was convicted of murder for her role in the St . Aubin killings. Two other defendants, Mark Bell and Jamal Biggs, were convicted. Another, Marc Caison, awaits trial.
